THE HUNDRED and ten millions of German reparations bonds, bearing 7 per cent. interest, offered at 93, were gobbled up as soon as offered.

Percival S. Hill, head of the big tobacco company, set a good example by taking ten million dollars' worth of them. Big concerns and individuals should take those foreign bonds, not little people.

IN SPITE of the quick sale of German bonds, Wall Street wasn't happy yesterday. It dawns on gentlemen that invest, speculate and gamble, that election day is going to be a most uncertain day. Stocks went down, money went up.

WHAT DO YOU consider news? Answer that question, and you would describe yourself. At what point do you stop and begin thinking when you read these items of today?

SENATOR BRANDEGEE, powerful man in Congress, killed himself by inhaling gas. He had lost money in real estate.

THE SUPREME COURT saved a Chinese, Chiang Sung Wan, from the death sentence. A new trial was ordered on the ground that Wan confessed murder under torture of the "third degree." You read that the Chinese college student confessed "on the eleventh day of torture to the limit of endurance." Is it anybody's business to punish men that did the torturing, if it was really done?

MARIE ZELIC married at fourteen, is nineteen now. She went joy riding with John Renne, twenty-four, and others, not including her husband. Her husband saw them coming back from the automobile ride at five in the morning.

One of the "joy riding" party beat her husband with a hammer. Then the young wife, with a pocket knife, killed Renne, who had taken her on the party. The "other man's wife" enterprise is never quite safe.

OLD MEN are sometimes as vain as boys, even when they are intelligent. Before he died, at eighty, Anatole France, urged to see some old friends, looked at himself in a mirror and said, "Send them away. I am too ugly."

Most old men, fortunately, are saved by merciful conceit from realizing how ugly they really are.

THE Prince of Wales, now visiting Henry Ford, will understand why England cannot compete with us in building cheap cars when Ford shows him how a car can be assembled in less than twelve minutes.

The Prince will see widely scattered all the parts of a special car to be called "The Prince of Wales Special," and twelve minutes later he will be asked to "jump in and drive the car under its own power." That's what you might call organized industry.

THE City of Washington is agitated by a leper, escaped from a leper colony in Louisiana. Other lepers paid his expenses to Washington to protest against their condition. Washington locked him up. Leprosy has ceased to be serious since bathtubs became cheap.

ZR-3 ENDS RECORD TRIP, SOARS OVER BOSTON

BAY STATE FIRST TO WELCOME AIRSHIP

Medford Tragedy Victim Was Brookline Girl

CAUSE OF DEATH IS MYSTERY

One Theory of Police Is That Elizabeth Hanley Died From Subtle Poison

Miss Elizabeth Louise Hanley, twenty-eight, of No. 10 Kerrigan place, Brookline former Dawers' Hospital and private nurse is the girl whose stylishly-clad body was found yesterday huddled on the veranda of the Filmland administration building Medford.

Identification of the Brookline girl was made by a marriage relative, Louis F. Cuneo of No. 33 Bickerstaff street, Back Bay, manager of the Tropical Fruit Co., Commercial street.

MYSTERY IN CASE.

Immediately on identification of the comely girl, dressed in fine silks and costly stuffs, a mystery woman said to live in Queensberry street, Fenway, entered the strange case.

This mystery woman, a chance companion of the Hanley girl, had been selling her a substance believed to be a drug, according to Elizabeth's relatives.

According to a sister, the Hanley girl had many male admirers and at one time told her family that she had become a secret bride, although she never produced the reported husband or revealed his name.

This reported marriage was denied today by her distracted mother, Mrs. Mary Hanley, a widow.

SEEK ADMIRER.

One angle on which the authorities are working is that Elizabeth may have met some of her admirers in the mysterious woman's Queensberry street apartment.

On Monday night—when she was last seen by her family—Elizabeth boarded a Boston car in Boylston street, Brookline, intending, she said, to visit in Queensberry street.

GAS KILLS CHILD AS SHE SLEEPS

Sister of Cambridge Victim May Not Recover; Leaking Pipe Blamed

Mrs. Mary E. Muller of No. 2545 Massachusetts avenue, North Cambridge, went to the bedroom of her two children, Dorothy, eleven years and Eleanor, eight, to call them for school today.

She found the room filled with gas, and the little girls lying motionless in bed.

Screaming hysterically the woman rushed to the street. A young man passing by, ran to her assistance. He dashed into the gas-filled room and carried the children, one after the other to fresh air.

The police were notified and arrived with a pulmotor, but it was too late. Dorothy was dead and her sister is dying at the Cambridge City Hospital.

The medical examiner was notified. The tragedy was caused by a leaking gas jet.

William Muller, father of the children, who is a chemical worker, had left for his place of employment before his wife's discovery was made.

TWO SENTENCED IN LIBERTY BOND PLOT

George House and James Ryan, alias Chicago Frank, in Federal District Court today were sentenced to a year and a day at Plymouth and eighteen months at Greenfield, respectively, by Judge Morton. They pleaded guilty to conspiracy to alter the registration on registered Liberty bonds. John A. Murphy, a Pittsfield broker, and the alleged principal in the case, was convicted by a jury after pleading not guilty, and is now awaiting sentence. The bonds were part of a $28,000 robbery from the Wyoming Banking Company of New York.

1 DEAD, FEAR OTHERS HURT, AS BRIDGE DROPS

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 15 (I.N.S.).—At least one man was killed and it is feared the bodies of others may be found in the ruins of a section of the steel bridge over the Ohio River which collapsed here today.

Albert Coulter of Moundaville, one of thirty-five workmen engaged in repairing the structure, dropped fifty feet to his death when the girders gave way with a crash heard for blocks.

Dirigible's Radio Man Is Swamped By Messages

New York, Oct. 15 (I.N.S.).—Such a flood of congratulatory messages filled the air as soon as the ZR-3 was over American soil that the radio operator aboard the dirigible, weary from long watches and busy with essential dispatches, was forced to say:

"Please hold messages congratulations. Must work with commercial and naval stations only."

POLL GIVES 3D PARTY LARGE GAINS

On the nineteenth day of the Boston American's Presidential poll the largest centres of Davis support proved to be even more strongly in favor of La Follette.

Mr. Davis' big vote for the day was collected on the streets of Lawrence. His total in the Woolen City was 48. This was his high mark. But Lawrence at the same time discovered 73 votes for La Follette.

Lynn was the only place to do better by La Follette than Lawrence. In Lynn, the Third Party candidate won the ballots of 89 voters.

President Coolidge did best in Brockton: Coolidge, 86; Davis, 15; La Follette, 10.

The President's low mark of the day was tallied in the neighborhood of Sullivan square, but not in the Elevated railway terminal: Coolidge, 15; Davis, 23; La Follette, 2.

At this writing, the President has

Airship Makes Graceful Landing at Lakehurst; She Passed Over Hub

Airdrome, Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 15 (A.P.)—The cabin of the ZR-3 came lightly to rest upon the earth at Lakehurst field at 9.55 a. m. today. She completed her journey from Friedrichshafen, Germany, a distance estimated at 5,000 miles, in 80 hours, 15 minutes.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, declared as his feet touched the airdome floor:

"Gentlemen, a new world's record —5,000 miles of continuous flight."

To Boston's little army of night toilers, today fell the signal and unexpected honor of welcoming to American soil the ZR-3, Leviathan of the air, and her handful of intrepid navigators.

A gaunt, grey specter, the giant airship, unboarded, passed over the waters of Massachusetts Bay while New England slept.

At 4.15 a. m., her engines giving forth a sharp staccato roar, in announcement of her coming that could be heard for miles, the dirigible passed from the harbor waters over Everett and thence straight across Boston proper, headed in the direction of Providence and New York.

Flying at low altitude, her sides glistening in the bright moonlight, and traveling at what seemed, to credible speed, the airship was given a reception in Boston that made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in volume.

Hundreds of newspaper workers, janitors, watchmen and others who comprise the night workers of Boston, heard the roar of the Zeppelin's engines as she approached.

Rushing to the streets, these toilers of the night sent up cheer after cheer. Harbor craft and locomotive whistles added their bit to the welcome.

That some of the noise of welcome reached the airship was indicated by the rapid blinking of the big ship's signal lights as she passed over the city.

It was just 4:15 a. m. when the ZR-3, flying at an altitude of approximately 1,500 feet, passed directly over the Hearst Building in Winthrop square.

SEEN PLAINLY.

The Zeppelin was traveling more than seventy miles an hour and within a minute or two had passed out of sight in the direction of South Boston.

The sky was cloudless and moon

SEAPLANE SETS RECORD FOR NON-STOP FLIGHT

Washington, Oct. 15.—An official world record for non-stop flight by a seaplane was set by a new scouting plane at Anacostia today, the plane remaining in the air twenty hours, ten minutes and ten seconds, or against the old time of fourteen hours 53 minutes and forty-four seconds. Five days ago a composite type seaplane, single motored, stayed in the air twenty hours and twenty-eight minutes, but the flight was not properly checked and was not recognized.

ZR-3 SENDS GREETING TO MAYOR IN PASSING OVER HUB

HUNDREDS SEE GIGANTIC CRAFT ON FLIGHT

and stars lighted the heavens perfectly so that the scores of cheering men in the streets and on buildings tops could see every outline of the airship as she passed by.

While flying over the city, the ZR-3 wireless plant was in full operation. The airship for hours had been in direct communication with station WCC, the Radio Corporation of America's shore station at Chatham on the Cape. This station, the most powerful in America, received all the messages from the air craft.

GREETINGS TO HUB.

As the monster of the air was passing over the lights of Boston she was flashing this message to the Chatham station:

"Major James M. Curley:

"Greetings from the ZR-3. Sorry it is not daylight.

(Signed) "LIEUT. KRAUS,
"U. S. N."

Lieutenant Kraus is the United States Navy engineering officer aboard the dirigible.

The greetings to Mayor Curley was the only local message sent out by the airship. The operators aboard the craft were evidently piled high under a batch of messages to be dispatched. Numerous messages in German were sent to Berlin while the American naval officers aboard kept the Navy Department in Washington constantly informed of the progress of the voyage.

ROUSES HUNDREDS.

While Boston was the first city in America to greet the dirigible, yet hundreds of residents in the outlying sections traversed by the airship were aroused from their slumbers by the roar of the engines of the craft, and sleepily poked heads from their bedroom windows to see what it was all about.

In Everett hundreds of citizens were awakened in time to see the airship disappear through the heavens in the direction of Boston proper, while south of the city many hundreds more were aroused.

The night workers at the Readville shops of the New Haven Railroad turned out in a body when the noise of the dirigible's engines was heard. The workers cheered lustily as the airship passed above them.

DIVERTED NORTH.

It was a desire of the commander of the dirible to give Boston the distinction of being the first American city to greet the Zeppelin that caused the course of the airship to be changed.

When storms and thick weather in the Atlantic, southeast of the Bermuda Islands, yesterday, caused a sudden change in the plans, the course of the ZR-3 was shifted and she headed toward Nova Scotia.

Epochal Achievement, Says Coolidge Telegram

Washington, Oct. 15 (I.N.S.)—The flight of the ZR-3 from Germany to the United States is an "epochal achievement, because it demonstrates as never before the feasibility of long-distance flights by lighter than air craft," President Coolidge declared today, in a telegram of congratulation to Hugo Eckener, commander of the ship.

Major Kennedy Brings Big Doll for Daughter

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 15 (A.P.)—The lady folk of the American officers trudged alongside the gilded cabin of the ZR-3 today, their arms full of gifts for the children, mingling with hundreds of others who obeyed the commands of patrols to keep back.

They were the wives of Captain Steele, Commander Klein and Major Kennedy and the major's eight-year-old daughter, and Lieutenant-Commander Knabe' two sisters.

"Papa, where's my doll?" shrilled the little Miss Kennedy.

The Major, standing in the cabin window, smiled, reached behind him and held up to view the walking doll that he had brought from Friedrichshafen for his daughter.

The only conversation carried on at first between the Americans and their kin was in pantomime on the part of the men aboard the ship.

"What do you suppose we've brought you," cried the wife of one of the American officers. Broad grins overspread four faces. One hand gestured in the attitude of raising a glass to lips. Three others went through the motions of lighting cigarettes.

First Dirigible Tried Sea Trip 14 Years Ago

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.)—Fourteen years ago today, almost to the hour that the ZR-3 poked her nose over New York, the first serious attempt to cross the Atlantic by dirigible got under way at Atlantic City, N. J.

At 3:01 a. m., October 15, 1910, Walter Wellman of Chicago, Melvin Vaniman, aviator-engineer, and a crew of four men embarked on the dirigible America for the Atlantic flight which ended in disaster less than seventy hours later.

Today the ZR-3 sailed over Brooklyn, Lakehurst-bound, completing the journey from Germany in but a few hours more than it took the ill-fated Wellman expedition to fly and drift 850 miles over a zigzag course that ended with the abandonment of the America 450 miles east of Cape Hatteras.

In spite of disaster, the incongruous America, grand-daddy of present-day lighter-than-air flyers, established records for distance covered by a dirigible in sustained flight, and for distance of flight—850 miles.

The America left Atlantic City with London as her objective. The cigar-shaped bag, 228 feet in length, was propelled by two motors of between 80 and 90 horsepower each. An hour off Atlantic City, the America ran into a fog, and at 6:50 that afternoon reported with the aid of her crude wireless that she was off Scotland lightship.

The America kept her way up the coast, keeping in touch with shore wireless stations until October 17, when trace of her was lost. Then, before dawn, on October 18, the wireless operator of the steamship Trent caught from the air lantern flashes in the Morse code. It was a call for help.

The Trent awaited the diver, which brought to her astounded crew and passengers the sight of the helplessly drifting dirigible 300 feet over their heads. With difficulty, the crew cut loose from the big bag, which was cast adrift, and the six were picked up by the steamer.

Finished at 90 Miles an Hour, Says Eckener

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 15—Describing the finish of the ZR-3's voyage to the field here, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, said:

"A favoring wind pushed us toward Lakehurst, past Boston and on to New York at the rate of ninety miles an hour. So, gentlemen, we are here.

"The first part of our voyage was fine; the last part full of heavy weather. From 5 a. m. Tuesday to 5 a. m. today we battled against the weather with a wind velocity of 55 to 60 miles per hour.

"We changed our course from the direct line we were pursuing from the Azores to Lakehurst because we found ourselves heading into a southwest wind which was rising, and a small low-pressure area.

"Monday evening we were making 45 miles an hour. We headed toward Nova Scotia into a southeast wind, then came along at great speed along the coast southward, passing between the scout cruisers Milwaukee and Detroit, but seeing neither.

MADE TRIP IN 80 HOURS AND 45 MINUTES

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 15 (A.P.)—The ZR-3 made a beautiful landing at the air field here today. Appearing over the northern edge of this naval air station at 9:16 a. m., she drove straight over the drigible to the far edge of the field, where she headed around and skirted the station for a quarter of its circumference, before nosing downward into the breeze and coming to a stop before the 'drome.

It was 80 hours and 45 minutes since she sailed from Friedrichshafen, Germany, bound for this country with 28 Germans and four Americans and destined for delivery at this station as the largest dirigible ever constructed and flown.

She looked like a silver-gilded ball on a Christmas tree as she settled downward head-on. She slowly came so that she looked like an inanimate object, suspended there by some invisible force betwixt the earth and the haze above.

Thirty-four minutes after she was sighted her motors stopped their roaring. For a moment she drifted easily, bobbing up and down like a small boat in a rolling swell. Always she dropped imperceptibly lower.

ENGINES IN REVERSE.

Straight past the red and white signal on the ground which indicated her chosen landing place, she glided. The motors spit clouds of black smoke as the engines went into reverse.

When within 200 yards of the towering drome a trap door flopped open from the bottom of the main cabin and a bundle of rope as large as a barrel plummeted downward.

Another trapdoor opened and another coil of rope thudded below. Signal horns and bells tooted in the gondola craft overhead. Whistles shrilled below. Sailors and marines hooked their spider web rope harness into the trailing towlines of the dirigible and almost without effort drew her gently down.

"Please don't make so much noise," shouted Commander J. Kenn, Jr., commander of the Lakehurst Naval Station and passenger on the ZR-3, as he leaned from a forward cabin port. The din of welcome was silenced instantly and a clear, sharp order of the navigators to the grounding crew rang out distinctly.

GREETING TO ECKENER.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, smiling but stern voiced, was recognized by a little group of German citizens who crowded around the State police and sailor guards to shout their congratulations.

Major F. M. Kennedy, in the uniform of the United States Army, stood at another port hole smiling as he bowed happily to the crowd.

She broke the finish tape after a non-stop flight estimated by officers of this station at 5,000 miles. The previous records were 4,500 miles set by the French dirigible Dixmude in 1923, and 3,500 miles set by the Zeppelin L-53 during the war.

The safe arrival of the ZR-3 from Friederichshafen, Germany, marks the fourth successful attempt of humans to span the waters of the Atlantic ocean in non-stop flight.

Aeronautic experts of the army and navy regard it as the most significant, if not the most spectacular flight. They declared today as the huge liner ended the longest continuous aerial passage in history that the world was witnessing undeniable evidences that the dirigible was destined to be the inter-continental passenger ship of the near future.

LEFT NEWFOUDLAND.

The British team of Alcock and Brown, both Royal Flying Corps men, took the air at St. John's, Newfoundland, in a Vickers-Vimy biplane on June 14, 1919. Sixteen hours and twelve minutes later, having traversed 1932 miles of sleet and fog, they plunged with their craft into a bog bar Gilden, Ireland.

The British dirigible R-34 rose from East Fortune, Scotland, one day in July. She turned her nose toward America and with her went thirty men—one of them a stowaway.

One hundred and eight hours that flight continued. At the end the R-34 hovered over Mineola, Long Island.

A few days later she headed homeward, arriving in England after a comparatively uneventful passage. She had crossed one ocean twice. Subsequent attempts to equal or surpass the cruise of the R-34 ended in tragedy.

ZR-3 Built as Penalty for Destroying Zeppelins

Washington, Oct. 15.—Approximately $2,200,000 will be credited as a German reparation payment to the United States when the ZR-3 is formally accepted by this government.

The air cruiser represents the American share of a special reparation assessed against Germany because of the destruction after the armistice in the Friedrichshafen plant of a half dozen complete or partially complete war Zeppelins, which under the armistice terms Germany had agreed to turn over to her late enemies.

In centre of diagram appears Patrolman Fennelly of the Medford police force who stated he noticed nothing of a suspicious nature about the premises the night preceding the finding of the body. Above is a photograph of the dead girl.

GIRL SLAIN AT FILMLAND IDENTIFIED

On the tracing of her movements from 8:30 Monday night when a cousin, Miss Anna Hanley of No. 47 Walter avenue, Brookline, saw her to the car, the police depend to solve the mystery of the girl's strange death in the secluded motion picture plant overlooking Middlesex Fellsway.

DEATH FROM POISON.

If the girl met her death at the hands of a murderer, poison was used in the slaying.

No marks are on the body and the condition of her clothing did not indicate a struggle.

Yet the State police and Medford authorities, despite strong leanings toward a suicide motive, are loathe to believe that Miss Hanley took pains to go all the way to lonely Filmland to end her own life.

The organs of the dead girl were removed today and will be analyzed to determine the possible presence of poison or drugs.

Strength is lent to the suicide theory because of the fact that, last January, Miss Hanley was found in the Fenway in a semi-conscious condition from iodine poisoning.

ONCE POISONED.

She was taken to the City Hospital by a taxi driver and told the hospital workers she was Ruth De Mar, of No. 47 Queensberry street. Later, however, she was identified as the Hanley girl by a relative.

Within a week of this case the City Hospital records bear the name of a Mary La Mar, brought in from No. 609 Massachusetts avenue, South End, and also suffering from iodine poisoning.

Following the identification by Cuneo today, the dead girl's mother, with Elizabeth's aunt, Mrs. May Hanley, of No. 47 Walter avenue, Brookline, and her daughter, Miss Anna Hanley, arrived at the mortuary in Medford.

IDENTIFICATION COMPLETE.

The prostricken mother did not view the body, but the aunt and cousin corroborated the identification.

From Anna the authorities learned that Elizabeth had threatened suicide Monday night while waiting for the trolley, stating that she had quarreled with her sister, Mrs. Helen Gordon, of Boylston street, Brookline, and that her mother had sided with the sister.

"When your mother goes back on you, there's nothing much left," Elizabeth was quoted as saying.

The mystery woman was injected into the case by Mrs. Bessie Cronin of No. 101 Decatur street, Charlestown, friend of Elizabeth.

To the police Mrs. Decatur revealed a story told her by Elizabeth some months ago.

While in a Nantasket Bay theatre Elizabeth had become faint and had gone to the reception room. There she met a woman who offered her a powder which she claimed to be a curative.

Elizabeth took the powder and felt better. The two women talked for some time and finally Elizabeth was invited to visit the other at her Queensberry street apartment.

The visit was made and then another and another, the mystery woman offering Elizabeth more of the powders whenever she felt out of sorts.

Then, on one visit, the woman proposed that Elizabeth hereafter would have to pay for the powders, as they were expensive. This Miss Hanley did, according to Mrs. Cronin's story, and continued the visits.

One decidedly weak point in the suicide theory is that more than six hours elapsed between the time of her boarding the trolley in Brookline and the time she is believed to have died in Medford—4 A. M. yesterday.

CHILDREN MAY SOLVE MYSTERY

Police Will Question Them, Believing They Hold Key to Murder

By BERT FORD

Mrs. Marion Risteen, of Beverly, mother of two children and her boarder, George W. Plummer, Jr., are at odds over the murder of her husband, Frederick Roy Risteen.

Mrs. Risteen has not spoken a word to Plummer since confessed on Sunday that he killed Risteen in a fight because of her and that she witnessed the sinking of her husband's body in Norwood's pond, North Beverly.

Plummer has been eager to talk to Atty. Reardon communicate with Mrs. Risteen, but she has snubbed him and instructed her relatives to do the same.

Mrs. Risteen also snubbed Plummer's attorney and engaged a lawyer of her own.

This feud and the theory of Beverly police that Plummer's thirteen-year-old daughter Eleanor and the two children may be keys to the solution of the crime, were the high lights today in the North Shore tragedy.

Mrs. Stephen Merrin, sister of Mrs. Risteen to whom she made a full confession before confessing to the police, admitted today that the three children were awake most of Saturday night, September 20, but insisted that they heard nothing suspicious.

The Beverly police interviewed the children, but are to submit each to a more searching examination in view of circumstances which they claim indicate more strongly than ever that Risteen was killed in his home on the second landing, No. 38 Cabot street, and the body carried to Norwood's pond.

ROBBED OF DADDY.

Eleanor Plummer, a motherless girl, lived with the Risteens, and she is now robbed of her daddy, who with Mrs. Risteen was arraigned on a charge of first degree murder before Judge George R. Stone in Salem District Court and held without bail after entering pleas of not guilty, for a hearing Oct. 21.

Freddie Risteen, aged nine, and little Marion, aged four, but their daddy and their mamma is a prisoner in Salem jail. Little Marion isn't old enough to grasp the situation. She is wondering where her mamma and daddy are.

Eleanor Plummer is with her grandmother at the Risteen home, a stead near Norwood's pond. The two Risteen children are with Mrs. Martin.

Chief William R. Davison and Lieutenants Welch and Tobin planned to give the Risteen home a rigid inspection today. They are to search for possible blood stains and the implement with which it is figured Risteen was struck from behind unawares and stunned until strangled by a noose of wire.

REFUSES TO SPEAK.

While Mrs. Risteen and Plummer sat in a consultation room in Salem District Court before and after arraignment on Tuesday Plummer never removed his gaze from the woman who is accused of homicide with him, but she never once glanced his way. When he tried to speak she turned away.

It was the same in the ride from Beverly to Salem and in the patrol wagon from the courthouse to the jail.

In spite of Mrs. Risteen's hostile attitude, however, Plummer remarked to one of the guards:

"They ought to let the girl go. I'm the only one to blame."

This has been Plummer's sentiment since both were arrested.

The Beverly police are reported to be in possession of facts to show that Mrs. Risteen was far more deeply involved than she has admitted and the authorities suspect that she is trying to shift all responsibility to Plummer.

WOMEN ARE BITTER.

Feeling among women spectators in and outside the court house was bitter against Mrs. Risteen.

When Mrs. Martin visited Beverly headquarters on Sunday for the first time to see her sister, accompanied by her husband, Plummer greeted them pleasantly and exclaimed to Martin:

"Come here a minute, Steve. I want to see you."

"Wait until we see Marion," replied Martin. After Mr. and Mrs. Martin had held a long conference with Mrs. Risteen they both passed Plummer's cell without so much as a nod and it hurt him.

Then Mrs. Risteen refused to grant a second interview to former District-Attorney William H. McSweeney, counsel for Plummer, who expected to represent her. Instead, Mrs. Risteen engaged Attorney M. J. Reardon of the law firm of Sullivan, Ronan and Reardon, in Salem.

JAPS ACCUSE U.S. IN CHINESE REBELLION

Mukden, Oct. 15 (A.P.)—American officials here, seriously concerned over what is termed "insidious" anti-American propaganda conducted by the Japanese press, are planning a protest to the Japanese foreign office.

According to translations made by the United States consulate interpreter, the Tairiku Nichi Nichi says:

"Certainly America is secretly supplying arms to the Shihli (Peking Government) forces. One hundred and ninety thousand rifles have been furnished already, despite existing treaties covering the importation of arms into China."

The Manshu Nichi Nichi says:

"American officers are taking part in the battle of Shanhaikwan driving Chihli janks. Many American soldiers are mixed with the Chihli troops, wearing Chinese dress."

As a result of all this propaganda, Americans in Mukden are distrusted. American newspaper correspondents are treated as spies and followed by Chinese police.

No American newspaper man has been allowed to visit the front. Even Captain Norman Baldwin, official United States military observer, has not been granted permission to go to the battlefront.

While fighting continued today at Shanhaikwan, the results were not known. Terror reigns in the Chinese sections of Mukden, owing to an order impressing coolies into front line war service. Many coolies have fled to the Japanese concession here.

Casualties in the armies of General Cheng Tso-Lin, battling against the Peking government forces on the Manchurian-Chihli'an border, are heavier than first reports indicated. An estimate today placed the total dead or injured at 14,300.

"When you ride in a dirigible," he said, "you wouldn't know you were moving, unless he dips suddenly."

BAPSIZED BOAT MAY BE LOST BOB-O-LINK

The mystery of the disappearance of the chaloupey cruiser Bob-o-link which left Gloucester September 2 under command of two men and has not been heard from since, was believed to be near solution today with the sighting of an overturned power boat seven miles off Minot's light.

Thomas J. Halpin, of the power boat Niplah, reported that while off Minot's light today he saw a cup sized craft corresponding in size and description to the missing Bob-o-link. He cruised about a short time in the hope of picking up some means of identification.

The Bob-o-link, owned by J. Rich, of Newburyport, left Gloucester for new Bedford with Ernest Brigham Gloucester, and Burt Eaton, of Newburyport aboard.

The boat did not reach its destination and no word was heard from her or the two men. Belief that she capsized in a heavy sea was strengthened by Halpin's report today.

PHAFF REVEALS 3 GRADES IN U. S. RUM RING

Brest, France, Oct. 15. (U.N.S.)—An average of 2,000,000 bottles of whiskey are imported into the United States through "rum runners" every month according to a statement in the French Naval court today by Max Jerome Phaff, of New York, charged with complicity in the piracy of 30,000 cases.

Phaff evidently sought to divert suspicion from himself by giving the names of others who knew the Mulhouse's anchorage position off the American coast.

He declared Leon MacQuellier, the French liquor exporter who had the largest financial interest in the Mulhouse, sold the whiskey cargo to seven bootleggers, but only one—a New Yorker named Rosenberg—was able to carry out a delivery. The others were unable to locate the Mulhouse.

Phaff also mentioned a taxicab driver named Schavlin.

The rum ring according to Phaff, consisted of three caste.

The lowest caste consists of the "pullers salesmen and fieldmen." Many names of these individuals were given in court. The second caste includes the organizers and executives who rarely show their hands, but have political influence and are able to arrange protection. The highest caste is comprised of bankers and financiers who put up millions of dollars to import liquor into America.

He was at this point Phaff admitted that he knew the names of only two or three members of the "banking caste."

GRAND JURY HAS GASOLINE INQUIRY

Several Springfield Dealers Are Summoned as the Probe Is Begun

Springfield, Oct. 15.—Criminal prosecution of alleged members of a local gasoline trust, forecast last month, began today with the convening of the Hampden County Grand Jury in special session.

About a dozen persons, most of whom are gasoline dealers, were on hand in response to summons. Assistant Attorney General Lewis Goldberg represented the attorney general's office, and was assisted by Assistant District Attorney Charles R. Classon.

On September 17 last, it was announced that prosecution of forty gasoline dealers by the State on charges of criminal conspiracy was likely as a result of reports that the dealers had voted to increase [illegible] gasoline from 18 to 20 cents a gallon.

[illegible] Walsh, secretary of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life discovered evidence showing that the forty dealers had paid $5 each to one Fred H. Graves, declared to be head of the "Gasoline Automotive Service" and the organizer.

Mayor E. P. Leonard of this city agreed to co-operate with the commission in unearthing the alleged conspirators.

The discovery by Secretary Scanlon resulted in an immediate consultation between Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Commission and Attorney-General Jay R. Benton, at which prosecution was decided on.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, Creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membrane, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

BANDIT HOLDS UP BANK; KILLS POLICEMAN

Description of Robber Corresponds With That of Red Chapman, Ex-Convict

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 15.—A bandit corresponding in description to "Red" Chapman, ex-convict, who, it is alleged, murdered a policeman in New Britain, Ct., several days ago, held up the Abbottstown State Bank of more than $1,000 and later shot and killed a State policeman who was pursuing him, 25 miles west of Abbottstown. The bandit escaped, going west on the Lincoln Highway. He was driving a roadsecretered red touring car, bearing New York license plates.

The dead State trooper was F. L. Hisley.

The bandit entered the Abbottstown Bank a half hour before closing time, and at a point of a pistol ordered the cashier to hand over all the cash in the drawer. He then commanded him to go to the vault. As he reached the safe, the cashier heard the front door of the bank slam, and turning saw the bandit jump into the touring car and drive west in the direction of Gettysburg.

CHAPMAN'S FORMER BANDIT-PAL SOUGHT

New York, Oct. 15.—Police today added the name of "Dutch" Anderson, former crime partner of Gerald Chapman, to their "wanted" list in connection with the attempted looting of a New Britain, Conn., department store and the killing of Patrolman James Skelly last Sunday morning.

Anderson participated with Chapman in the famous "million dollar mail robbery" here in 1921. Like Chapman, he also escaped from Atlanta Penitentiary.

Attention was directed to Anderson by Walter E. Sheam, of Springfield, Mass., who was arrested in connection with the New Britain crime.

FIRST CALL FOR WINTER HORSE BLANKETS ISSUED

Owners of horses are reminded by the Boston Work Horse Relief Association that it is time to get out the Winter blankets for their animals. The need is especially great, the association says, for horses out on the streets in the early morning, such as those on milk wagons, and for horses who make frequent stops on the streets, such as those on ice teams, bakers' wagons and peddlars' carts.

Gas on Stomach Gone—Sound Sleep Comes After Taking Adlerika

"After just ONE bottle Adlerika (intestinal antiseptic) pain in my side (due to gas on the stomach) is gone and I can eat good and sleep WONDERFUL. I feel like a new person." (Signed) Mrs. O. McGinnis.

Intestinal Antiseptic

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a complete system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It cleans out BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes foul matter which poisoned the system for months. It brings all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much MORE foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. It might disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach or sick headache, one spoonful of Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports from Physicians

"I have found nothing in my 58 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some results only can be done." (Signed) Dr. F. M. F. (Name withheld by request).

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"Cannot describe awful IMPURITIES eliminated from my system (by Adlerika). Feel better than for 20 years." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, because of its quick, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

WOMAN SLAYER TAKES STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

Middleburg, Pa., Oct. 15 (U.N.S.).—Taking the stand in her own defense, Mrs. Aimee Willow today told a graphic story of abuse and brutality by Harvey Willow, her husband, for whose murder she is on trial.

Under questioning of her counsel, she told all of the details of her early life, her courtship by Willow and their married life.

"He was cruel to me. He beat me, kicked me, choked me and then threw me down the steps," she testified. This occurred five years after their marriage.

Putting Mrs. Willow on the stand was the first move of the defense and came as a complete surprise to the prosecution.

"For three years after our marriage," she testified, "we lived apart. He worked at North Cumberland and I stayed at home. Then we went to housekeeping."

The prosecution moved with speed in closing its case. Ralph Shadel, eighteen, who committed the murder, was again called to the stand. He testified to having shot and killed Willow. His testimony was introduced to establish the fact that Willow had been murdered.

ACTION ON CHILD LABOR URGED BY GOMPERS

Message Read at Meeting in Gilbert Hall, Tremont Temple

Advocates of the child labor amendment in Massachusetts were urged to wage an unrelenting fight for the victory of the movement by President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in a telegram to the Boston Women's Trade Union League.

The message was read by Mrs. Maud Foley Van Vaerenewyck, president of the league, at a child labor ratification rally held under the association's auspices at Gilbert Hall, Tremont Temple.

Mr. Gompers declared that "no more important issue comes before the voters of Massachusetts in the coming election than the child labor amendment." Further, that "Massachusetts has been a leader in many historic movements for human freedom. I urge that those interested in the abolition of child labor assume responsibility for seeing to it that, in the coming decision on the child labor amendment, in your State Massachusetts again stands in the forefront of those making the fight for human freedom. I urge upon the wage earners of Massachusetts that they continue to do their full share and more for the protection of child life of our country."

Miss Julia C. Lathrop, former chief of the federal children's bureau, said that objectors to the child labor amendment "conjure up a bugaboo in the form of alleged bolshevistic control of our government."

Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer of the A. F. of L., ridiculed those who opposed the amendment and denounced those who termed it "bolshevistic and communistic." He then read a long list of churches and societies of all denominations as in favor of the amendment.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Frederick P. Bagley.

Popular Winslow Girls to Pass Winter Under California's Sunny Skies

By BETTY ALDEN.

GLOOMY indeed is the news that the Cameron McRae Winslow and their family are to bask in the warm sunshine of California these coming months.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Winslow have a trio of charming daughters—Natalie, Theodore and Emilie—who are among Boston's most popular belles.

Natalie, the oldest, is distinctly of the blonde type, while Theodora and Emilie are both Titian-haired and rather resemble each other.

Miss Emilie, the youngest, was a debutante of the past season, and one of the jolliest parties of the Winter was the ball which Admiral Winslow and Mrs. Winslow gave for her and her two sisters at the Somerset.

I recall most distinctly how demurely Miss Emilie looked in her old-fashioned frock of white satin with its tight bodice, long, full skirt and the dainty white ribbons falling from the shoulders.

Theodora, too, was gowned in the mode of bygone days, hers a rather unusual and most becoming affair of cerise and white.

The Winslows, whose winter residence is on Bay State road, have been spending their summers at Newport, where they see much to do here in the social activities of that famous watering-place.

ALL THE Winslow girls are crack tennis players, but not one of them wields a racquet with more skill and "pep" than does Papa Winslow. Virtually every tournament at the Casino is represented by the Winslow family "en masse," so to speak.

Admiral Winslow, who has been retired for some years now, was one of the most popular men the navy ever knew. His father commanded the Kearsarge when she defeated the decided Alabama, the scourge of the seas during the Civil War, and Admiral Winslow himself stood out as one of the heroes of the Spanish War.

THIS IS the most gorgeous time of all in the Berkshires, and entertainments galore are being held in honor of the many visitors there.

The George Higginsons seem to be keeping open house at "Rock Lawn" as they call their Lenox place. The other day virtually the entire Lenox colony turned out for the baseball game held at "Rock Lawn." Later tea was served on the verandas, in charge of Mrs. Moreheed Patterson (Elsie Parsons) of Cambridge.

Other guests included the two sons of the house, William Ellery Sedgwick, Harvard '22, who has come on from Kansas City, and Alexander C. Sedgwick of the Harvard '24 class, who has just returned from England.

Society Notes

MISS AGNES DE WOLF of Providence has been spending several days at The Vendome as the guest of Mrs. Edward S. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Van Rensselaer have arrived at the La Forge in Newport.

Mr and Mrs. Carl A. de Gersdoff, who have been entertaining their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Bendice, Jr., of Boston, at their Stockbridge villa, have joined the New York colony at Hot Springs.

Mrs. Grant Walker has returned to her Beacon street residence after spending the season in Lenox at the Aspinwall cottage, which she has leased for next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larocque, Jr. (Louise Barber) who were married in New York last April, are now at their apartment at No. 175 E. 71st street. Mr. Larocque, a Harvard man, is the brother of Mrs. Charles R. Codman of Boston.

Mrs. George Winthrop Folsom has concluded her Boston visit and returned to "Sunny Ridge" her Lenox estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkinson and their three daughters are at the Manchester summer home upon returning from their sojourn abroad. The Hopkinsons will spend several weeks at "Sharksmouth" before going to the winter home in Cambridge.

FEAR RENEWAL OF CHINESE REBELLION

Shanghai, Oct. 15 (A.P.)—Renewed hysteria was apparent today in the ranks of the native Chinese population by reports of the entrance of General Hsu Shu-Tseng, "Little Hsu," with a move to revive the defeated Chekiang forces and renew hostilities against the Kiangsu forces. The reports said the Little Hsu had bribed troops from Hupeh province allied with the winning Kiangsu army to desert that cause and join forces with the defeated Chekiang troops against General Chi Shieh-Yuan, military governor of Kiangsu province.

SOUTHERN PORTS PROTEST N. E. FREIGHT RATE APPEAL

Washington, Oct. 15.—The ports of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News today petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss the appeal of the port of New York authority and New England ports for a joint hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Shipping Board on equalization of ocean and rail freight rates. The three cities, intervenors in the case, claim the commission has no jurisdiction over ocean rates, and [illegible] participate in any decision affecting them.

SOVIET TO BE RECOGNIZED BY FRANCE

Formal Action to Be Taken at Paris This Week

Paris, Oct. 15 (A.P.)—The French government will, on Friday, formally recognize the Soviet Republic of Russia, according to information obtained in official circles today.

The principle of recognition has been decided upon by the commission, appointed recently to study the question of Franco-Russian relations, which is seeking to draw up a text in which the decision to recognize the Soviet government will be announced.

This text may be adopted at a meeting of the commission this afternoon.

Formal announcement was made that de jure recognition of Russia would be made under such terms as to reserve all the rights of the French government and of French citizens who hold Russian bonds to the amount of about 12,000,000,000 gold francs and who have business interests in Russia.

With the French government claims for loans made to Russia before the war, the total due to France at the outbreak of the war was about 19,000,000,000 francs.

ROYAL PALACE AT MECCA IS PLUNDERED

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 15 (I.N.S.)—Victorious Wahabi tribes, before whose advances government troops have evacuated Mecca, today entered the outskirts of the Holy City and plundered the royal palace, from which King Ali Hussein recently fled. The former king, at the head of the troops remaining loyal to him has fled toward Jeddah, a seaport northwest of Mecca.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets — the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble, and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

EDITH DAY WINS AUDIENCE IN 'WILDFLOWER'

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

TAKING it by and large, as runs a familiar phrase, musical plays rise or fall on slender motives, with the balance largely in favor of any intruding an engaging personality that may turn up in the course of the proceedings. This was more than apparent at the Shubert last evening, where Edith Day established herself as the life of the party in Arthur Hammerstein's musical play, "Wildflower."

Turned into a single sentence, Miss Day sang like a nightingale, acted like the veteran of a score of dramatic romances, and finally finished a good evening's work by spreading a rare and irresistible personality upon a thoroughly enjoyable performance. It was just another case of a talented little person carrying a heavy burden and making it appear a simple devotion to duty.

"Wildflower" never did run far into the field of musical comedy as it has fallen upon us this season. Romantic Italian sentiment, with pleasant folk flitting about in peaceful valleys furnished the background, and Miss Day and her comic companions did the rest.

Naturally, there was fun sprinkled into even those sedately pastoral scenes, and it was supplied by Bobby Higgins, who worked in high tenor, and Bernard Gorcey, who may be set down as the smallest Italian with a German dialect known to the modern stage. Esther Howard brought color to the feminine contingent by showing that a pretty girl may look the part and still have a sense of humor. Guy Robertson was the romantic tenor with a luxurious voice and the customary manner of musical comedy heroes.

The charm of "Wildflower" settled easily upon Miss Day, for it is always a unique pleasure to come face to face with so much happily assorted talent. There is novelty in discovering a singer who can act, but to discover one who also possesses the added virtue of personal charm is almost too good to be true. So we may all leave Miss Day to her "Wildflower."

JOHN McCORMACK WILL OPEN TOUR IN BOSTON

John McCormack, the Irish tenor, who is to sing in Symphony Hall, Sunday Afternoon and Tuesday evening, has arrived in America from his recent concerts in London, and will begin his tour here.

McCormack has been given the Cross of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the French government. In the Spring of 1915 he responded to an appeal made the Duc de Richelieu and gave a benefit concert in aid of the French tubercular soldiers' relief fund. It is estimated that he raised almost $1,000,000 for various war charities in America during wartime.

U.S. WAR POLICY ASSAILED BY LA FOLLETTE

Says Wilson and Harding-Coolidge Regimes Ruled by J. P. Morgan

Coliseum, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15.—In the most sensational speech of his campaign thus far, Senator Robert M. La Follette charged both the Wilson and Harding-Coolidge administrations with abandoning the traditional American foreign policy and oecoming the servants of J. P. Morgan and Co. and the Standard Oil Co.

The Independent-Progressive Presidential candidate asserted that the Wilson administration discriminated in favor of the Allies while pretending neutrality; was driven into the war by the international bankers, and had a Morgan partner, Thomas W. Lamont, as its chief adviser at the Peace Conference.

The Republican administration, Senator La Follette charged, had repudiated a pledge to avoid entangling alliances and abandon the foreign policies of Woodrow Wilson, on which it was elected, had made the State department the agency of American bankers and the Standard Oil Co., and entered into the four-power Pacific treaty, which, he declared, imperilled the American people and directly threatened world peace.

Senator La Follette continued: "It is said 'no man can serve two masters'; but Secretary of State Hughes, in his direction of the foreign policy of the United States, can and does serve two masters. He serves both Standard Oil and Morgan & Co. with constant fidelity. From the beginning of the Harding-Coolidge administration our foreign policy has been shaped in the main in the interests of one or the other of these two affiliated groups.

"The first purpose of the Progressives, La Follette asserted, "is to break the power of the private monopoly system over our government and return it to the people."

The Progressive candidate spoke to a crowd of more than 10,000 that packed the Coliseum, where Woodrow Wilson was nominated by acclamation the second time. Amplifiers carried his address to an overflow crowd outside and it also was broadcast by radio. Five thousand people paid 25 cents to $1 for tickets and a generous collection was taken up in the Coliseum.

"Had the plain people or international law announced by Washington and Jefferson been followed, we would not have been called upon to declare war upon any of the belligerent nations of Europe," he said. "The fatal error came in the failure of President Wilson to treat the belligerent nations of Europe alike, the failure to reject the unlawful war zones of both Germany and Great Britain.

12 FARMERS TO DECIDE FATE OF MRS. TELL

Jury Will Choose Between the Slayer's Story and Testimony of Experts

Middletown, Ct., Oct. 15. (I.N.S.)—Forced to decide between a pretty woman's story and the testimony of two experts, twelve Connecticut farmers were to determine today the fate of Mrs. Johanna Tell, on trial here charged with manslaughter in the slaying of Charles F. Blair, April 8.

Mrs. Tell, who was Blair's house keeper, claims she shot the Killingworth society jack and shopped him with the axe in self-defence. The State charges she shot him as he was lying down.

DEFENDS DEED.

It is true that Mrs. Tell fell by the wayside," said Judge Daniel J. Donahue, counsel for the defense, "but she had determined to end their sordid relations. When Blair attempted to assault her, the Lord came to her aid and guided the bullet."

Mrs. Tell appeared dazed as both attorneys resurrected ghosts of the past, relating how her love for Blair had changed to hatred.

DAUGHTER LOYAL.

Throughout the trial, her fourteen year-old daughter, Lillian, otherwise known as "Babe," has remained at Mrs. Tell's side. The girl, attractively clad, in sharp contrast to her mother's shabby dress, gave the curious spectators stare for stare and slipped her hand trustingly into her mother's arm.

Three Sisters of Mercy who have been caring for the girl while her mother was confined behind the bars of the County Jail were less successful than Mrs. Tell in controlling their emotions. They sobbed as the State's attorneys assailed Mrs. Tell as a "vindictive woman."

FAT WOMAN TELLS WHAT SHE DID TO REDUCE

USES SANGRINA AND DR. FOLTS' SOAP

"For several years I weighed between 185 and 195 pounds and was daily putting on flesh, although I tried every reducing pill, cream and remedy advertised. I would probably weigh 200 pounds to-day if I had not been fortunate enough to meet a French woman, who gave me a secret way she had found to get thin. With it I lost 75 pounds in a remarkably short time and greatly improved my health. I am glad to have the opportunity to make public the simple, easy directions I followed. If you, too, are burdened with ugly rolls of fat, suffer from high blood pressure and dizziness, you can almost immediately be relieved by doing just what I did and at the same time make yourself look ten years younger."

DIRECTIONS TO GET THIN

Get from your druggist a box of Sangrina and use it as per directions. At the same time get some of Dr. Folts' Soap (most druggists have it or can order it from the Daggett & Ramsdell Laboratories, New York City). Make a good lather with this soap, apply it night and morning on special parts you want to reduce, such as double chins, ankles, bust, hips, etc., let it remain a few minutes, then wash off. This French beauty secret is extensively used in Paris and New York by fashionable women and actresses, and has been found even quicker to reduce in a very short time. It does not leave any wrinkles or flabby tissues, and of course is ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS. Try it and it will not be long before you will see a remarkable change in your figure. I know of many men and women who, in the very first week have lost from 7 to 6 inches in measurement and several pounds in weight with Sangrina and Dr. Folts' Soap combined. It is the easiest, safest and most economical way to reduce. After you have attained desired measurement, you do not need to continue with Sangrina, but keep a box of Dr. Folts' Soap handy, use it regularly once or twice a week, and even if you eat more than you should, you will not see any fat get on your figure. On sale at Armstrong's, Hunt's, Sawyer's, Walker-Gordon's, Richardson's, Raymond-Whitcomb's or Eastman's drug stores.

HIGH POLL FOR LA FOLLETTE IN LAWRENCE

Cuts Deeply Into the Davis Stronghold on 19th Day of Straw Ballot

received 4,748 votes in Massachusetts, against the 8,568 cast for his two opponents. He leads Senator La Follette by 2,358. La Follette is 212 votes in advance of Davis.

19TH DAY TOTAL.

Total vote	984
Coolidge	402
La Follette	297
Davis	285
Coolidge over La Follette	105
La Follette over Davis	12
Both together lead Coolidge by	180
Shift from Cox to Coolidge	20
From Harding to Davis	57
Democrats for La Follette	99
Republicans for La Follette	139
Others for La Follette	39

This straw vote does not appear to be so much of a Coolidge affair as it was in the beginning. The President's leadership is not to be questioned but he is not so far out in front. Nothing is more significant than the fact that the Democratic vote is running so strongly for La Follette and La Follette continues to run almost neck and neck.

ASSURED FOR G. O. P.

The drama and the tragedy—of this campaign will be written outside of New England. Its history will be made elsewhere. There is, nevertheless, a natural curiosity to know how big the La Follette vote will be in this part of the country and where it is coming from. The tables tell the story.

The bulk of the Lawrence vote reported today was cast by textile workers at present employed. The Brockton vote, so largely Coolidge, came in the main from officers and employes of one of the W. L. Douglas shoe factories. In Lynn, on the other hand, the bulk of the La Follette vote was contributed by youthful shoe-workers.

La Follette Vote in South Shows Increase

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18.—The Atlanta Georgian's Presidential poll of the Central South, now in its fourth week, emphasizes that, while Davis is the favorite, Senator La Follette is pushing President Coolidge farther and farther in the rear.

With a total for Davis of 7,612 as of this date, La Follette has piled up 3,390 for second place, while Coolidge has a total of 2,301.

The La Follette strength is creeping closer and closer every day to 50 per cent. of the Davis strength.

In Louisiana, where La Follette was arbitrarily "ruled off" the ticket, the poll of public gathering shows striking La Follette strength. In no ballot taken does La Follette fail to loom large, generally well ahead of Coolidge.

In Florida the Democrats, no less than the Republicans, have taken real alarm at the growing La Follette strength. The Davis leaders are planning a "whirlwind campaign" at the last minute.

Democrats Most Loyal to Ticket in R. I.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 15.—An addition of 255 was made to the vote in the Rhode Island straw ballot of the Boston American by the work of a reporter who, supplied with blank ballots, made a tour of Fulton and Washington streets, in the business district.

In considering the following figures it should be borne in mind that the votes, in the main, were cast by business men. The district is not far from the Union Station:

For Coolidge	129
Davis	66
La Follette	60
Shift from Cox to Coolidge	3
From Harding to Davis	7
Democrats for La Follette	14
Republicans for La Follette	23
Others for La Follette	23

One does not hear so much talk of the presidential event in the city as of the Flynn-Metcalf fight for the United States Senatorship or Lieutenant-Governor Toupin's chances of being promoted to the Governorship. The State contests are red hot.

BIG SHIFT TO LA FOLLETTE IN MAINE

Many Republicans Are Deserting Old Party and Going to Progressive

Augusta, Me., Oct. 15.—In this part of Maine, according to the poll conducted by the Kennebec Journal in co-operation with the Boston American, President Coolidge is not merely as strong as both his rivals put together, but nearly three times as strong.

The figures represent the beginning of a canvass in several cities and towns by Kennebec Journal correspondents, together with the independent canvass of the city of Augusta alone by a member of the Boston American staff:

Coolidge	265
Davis	69
La Follette	28

Seventeen of those who announced a determination to vote for La Follette voted for the Republican ticket four years ago. Six are former Democrats. Eighteen of these, twenty-three La Follette votes were cast in Augusta.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 15.—Votes added to the straw ballot today in this part of Maine, as collected by the Bangor Commercial in co-operation with the Boston American:

Coolidge, 32; Davis, 7; La Follette, 5.

Shift from Cox to Coolidge, 3; Harding to Davis, 0; Democrats for La Follette, 3; Republicans for La Follette, 0; others for La Follette, 2.

La Follette Runs Behind in Franklin, N. H.

Franklin, N. H., Oct. 15.—A first try at taking a straw ballot in Franklin suggests that this city is as little interested in the third party movement as its neighbor, Laconia.

Coolidge, 36; La Follette, 9; Davis, 13.

Democrats for La Follette, 2; Republicans for La Follette, 2; others for La Follette, 3.

This situation may change materially when the campaign of the American Federation of Labor warms up. The State branch has endorsed La Follette and Wheeler and John F. Barry, president of the State branch, has assumed charge of the campaign in New Hampshire.

La Follette Leading in Washington Herald Poll

Washington, Oct. 15.—Dissatisfaction on the part of voters with the records of the two old political parties and a positive demand for the creation of a new virile third party is evidenced in the returns received by the Washington Herald in its presidential poll.

Of the total votes received by the Herald, 46 per cent. have been cast for Senator La Follette, largely as a protest vote against the two old parties. The remaining 48 per cent. is divided 25 per cent. for President Coolidge, Republican nominee and 20 per cent. for John W. Davis, Democratic standard bearer.

BOSTON POLICE HUNT 8 MISSING GIRLS

Wives' Nerves Wrecked By Poor Lights in Homes

HUB POLICE HUNTING 8 GIRLS

Wanderlust Grips Maids and Matrons From Far and Near

Wanderlust, directing the roaming pumps of eight girls, caused eight names and descriptions to be jotted down in patrolmen's notebooks today in the Hub.

If any one of the eight wanderers are in the Hub, the notebooks may mean the end of their travels. And then again they may not.

Three sixteen-year-old maids, who were acting demures at the Oaklawn School for Girls, Howard, R. I., are not there any more.

They took to the open road when the crush of studies became too great and the romantic open spaces called. The girls are: Clara Immoer, Louise Yutta and Ica Brunnell.

STATE WARD GONE.

Helen A. Roche, thirteen, of No. 92 Castle street, South End, is one of those missing. She has bobbed, chestnut hair, medium complexion and blue eyes. She is five feet six inches tall, weighs 100 pounds and wore a brown coat and black shoes, but no hat.

Another missing girl is Beatrice Holliday, a colored State ward, who is only five feet tall, but who tips the beam at 140 pounds.

TWO MORE WANDERERS.

Joy E. Denbelle, fifteen, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Mrs. Lena Argris, twenty-four, for whom no address is given, are the remaining two missing wanderers.

Joy is five feet five inches tall, weighs only ninety pounds and has a fair complexion and brown hair and eyes. Her coat is black and white.

Mrs. Argris is five feet four inches in height, weighs 160 pounds and has dark hair, blue eyes and medium complexion.

CITY WORKERS RESCUE CHILDREN'S PET

ROXBURY TOTS KEPT CAT ALIVE THREE DAYS IN "DUNGEON."

To the unbounded joy of little chilly pleased because he's just plain, children of Wakullah street, Roxbury, "Peter," pet cat of the neighborhood, was rescued from his subterranean dungeon.

"Peter" tumbled into a sewer and spent three days there until workmen of the Sewer Department answered an appeal from his sorrowing two-legged friends.

They kept their pet alive and well during those three days by lowering scraps of meat into the prison by means of a tin can and a piece of string. George and Buddy King and Bobbie Webber guarded the two exits of the dungeon to be sure no harm could reach their favorite.

The rescued cat purred today in the arms of the trio and agreed it pays to have friends. Pete is especially pleased because he's just plain, ordinary cat without distinguishing features except his name. And incidentally Peter's a she.

The Animal Rescue League, the Angell Memorial Hospital and the fire department were all appealed to before the Sewer and Sanitary Division sent a ladder and a man down into the dungeon, six feet beneath the street, and brought Peter up.

MARITAL DISCORD CAUSED

Expert in Hub Shows How Improper Conditions Lead to Divorce Court

As many home are wrecked by poor lighting as they are by "sheiks," according to Professor F. A. Woll of the College of the City of New York, now attending the Tremont Temple Optical Clinic.

The doctor traces a heavy percentage of eye and nerve trouble to improper lighting and leading up to the relation of poor lighting to marital troubles points out the conditions of the kitchen in the average home.

"The average kitchen as a rule has plenty of light," Doctor Woll declared, "but more often in the wrong place.

"Or perhaps the light strikes the building next door and reflects into the room in an improper angle.

"The average kitchen is ugly and monotonous for the trying task of preparing a meal. Add a woman with sub-normal eyesight and the problem grows.

By the time that a husband subjected to poor lighting in a business office or factory arrives home, suffering from the irritation of the consequent strain, he is faced by a wife whose nerves are in a jangle this doctor points out, and then discord breaks forth. It is not to be wondered that daily repetitions of such situations lead to marital complications.

Professor Woll told of one domestic war—or near war—because of wall paper. The wife selected a pattern with black and white vertical stripes. The hanger's eyes had astigmatism so that the lines wavered. This affected the woman's nervous system so that she became cross and irritable.

Loves of a Modern Flapper Told in Best Romance Ever Written by Author of "Chickie"

By ELENORE MEHERIN

"NO—I'm not going to cry!" She wiped Margaret's cold face with her skirt and held her arms very tight about her mother's shoulders. She whispered: "Marmee—marmee, can you hear?" And she was glad to feel the wetness and the cold. She put her face down and cried hard against Margaret's cheek.

They took her to the Lundstrom farm and sent for the doctor. Matty brought warm blankets. She poured liquid between Margaret's lips.

Nora Lee held the cup of soup. When no one was in the room she leaned down and whispered: "Marmee—just say if you know I'm here—you won't die, will you?"

Then Margaret seemed trying hard to answer. She breathed in a loud, gaspy way. Soon her white cheeks were stained. Matty touched them, mumbling: "That's good—the color's coming. She'll be all right—"

It was late when the doctor came. They sent Nora Lee out of the room. She went up the loft-like stairs to the bare attic, with its small white iron bed. The walls were thin; the wind swirled about the house, and the snow dropped in immense

ATTEMPT TO GET OUT STAY-AT-HOME VOTE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A MOVEMENT has been started in Washington to get out the chronic stay-at-home vote, which is said to comprise about 50 per cent. of the citizenship.

The organization is nonpartisan, and its only aim will be to stimulate the laggard voter. It is proposed to establish a national organization with State branches and smaller branches for smaller units. The purposes of the association were set forth in their constitution as follows:

"The purpose of this association is to aid, by all practical means, a full registration and vote of all qualified American citizens throughout the United States. To that end it is our purpose to organize a national association which will include every part of the country.

"It is our purpose to enroll members regardless of political affiliations and to secure the patriotic services and co-operation of all individual citizens and all classes of people."

According to Mr. Michelet, who is prominent in the association, it is said that for every one hundred persons who went to the polls on election day, ninety-four qualified voters stayed at home.

He says that but 26,674,000 people voted in the last presidential election, while there were 54,420,000 people, native and naturalized citizens, of voting age.

They claim that the stay-at-home habit is growing at an enormous rate. In 1890, 80 per cent. of the voters cast their ballots; in 1900, 73 per cent.; in 1908, 66 per cent.; in 1912, 62 per cent., and in 1920, less than 50 per cent. of the people voted.

People do not vote because they have no interest in the government, but they fail to recognize that those who are interested in government are small groups who desire to use the government for their personal advantage. It is necessary, therefore, for the large mass of citizens to take an active interest in voting in order to counteract the effect of those special groups.

Government will continue to be used for special privilege until these indifferent citizens express themselves. It is hoped, therefore, that the country may be saved for the majority by arousing the majority to vote.

EAST TO SEE MORE WIDE-OPEN FOOTBALL PLAY THIS YEAR

HARVARD LATEST CONVERT

By HERBERT REED

Copyright, 1924, by Tabloid Service.

New York, Oct. 15 (Universal).—There will be more wide-open football in the East this year than ever before, especially in the early and intersectional games.

Harvard is the latest convert. Under the Haughton regime, the kicking game was hoisted to a point of efficiency never before attained by any eastern eleven, and the preseason was put on by a massed drive.

SLASHING END PLAY.

In the meantime, however, the Crimson has picked up and stored away many plays of its less orthodox opponents, notably Penn State and Oregon. These have been available, but little used for some time.

In comparison with Yale and Princeton, Harvard took up adapting to a waiting first line of defense, which can be maintained with rare success between the two 40-yard lines. It will surprise no one this year, however, to find the Harvard ends and tackles going in against the shifts, from rather wide stations, hard and fast.

"Pop" Warner invented the sweep plays in which the guards were such potent factors and in which the waiting end met them from seven men in the interference. This style of play has mostly gained ground in the East, supplemented by the "cut-back" and "end-outer" against the tackle positions.

The hardest point in defense to drive home to the secondary is when to stand fast until the play is developed. For this reason the forward pass defense is the last attribute of a team to gain something approaching efficiency.

For this reason the pass is more successful as a rule in the early season than later. Along about mid-November the intercepted pass begins to play its vital role and a savage role it is, for statistics show that it has won or directly led to winning many an important game.

WATCH SECOND DOWN.

In one respect every section of the country is at one, at last—and that is the feeling that the territory between the two 25-yard lines is of little use to anybody. A team should work out of it with the least possible effort and without showing anything in the nature of potential scoring plays. For this reason one may expect to find the quarterbacks in this territory, passing on almost any down but fourth, with increasing attention to the second.

Until recently third down with more than three yards to go meant a pass almost to a certainty. By fairly frequent passing on second down the third down has been better protected, while still leaving fourth down for the kick.

There should be interesting developments this season in this use of the second down. Notre Dame discovered its vital value last year, and Yale took it up with notable success.

Football is King Again

Boston College and Syracuse
Notre Dame Passes Up Game
Going to the Stadium Saturday?

Football once more has the centre of the sport stage. As soon as McNeely's hit sent Ruel across the plate with the winning run of the world's series, the stars of the gridiron marched forth in all of their glory like the knights of old starting on a crusade to the Holy Land.

The Harvard-Middlebury game last Saturday at the Stadium gave a real punch to the New England football situation. Then came the great thrill from Williams' spectacular victory over Cornell.

The tremendous popularity of football and the hold it has on the people was proved when close to 25,000 turned out for the conflict between Boston College and Fordham. It was a foregone conclusion that the Maroon and Gold outfit would win in decisive fashion. This fact did not injure the attendance so eager was the public to see Coach Cavanaugh's rugged outfit in action.

Boston College and Syracuse

Boston College will engage in its first "big" game of the season next Saturday, when it battles Syracuse at the latter's stadium. Syracuse has always been noted for its powerful elevens. This year it is also represented by a mighty aggregation of pigskin chasers. It has players who have the ability to crash through an opponent's line for long gains, who can throw and receive forward passes with the highest kind of efficiency, and a line which can well be compared to the Rock of Gibraltar.

Boston and New England football fans, though, will find out on Saturday that the machine coached by Cavanaugh, and which gathers its momentum from real ability, courage, strength and intelligence, will go into the game determined to gain the victory and that it will prove a credit to itself and to those interested in its success.

The Story on Notre Dame

Attorney William Higgins of this city, former president of the athletic counsel at the University of Notre Dame, was recently asked by this writer how large a crowd a football game between Boston College and Notre Dame would draw.

"What is the seating capacity of the biggest place available for such a contest?" was Attorney Higgins' answer.

Boston College has made several attempts to arrange a contest with Notre Dame. From information this newspaper has obtained from Attorney Higgins, who is high in the athletic councils at Notre Dame, such a contest will not take place for several years, if ever.

Holy Cross Invades Stadium

You will receive another argument in regard to the hold football has upon the people of New England if you journey to the Stadium on Saturday to see Harvard play Holy Cross. The Harvard athletic office has made preparations to handle 45,000 persons, the seating capacity of the Stadium.

An equally large crowd will attend the conflict between Dartmouth and Yale at New Haven.

* * *

Football is the power that keeps college sport going. It attracts the money to the box office that is so necessary to pay the huge deficits of rowing, track athletics, baseball and the minor sports.

* * *

Baseball, boxing and horse racing have long been considered the major sports of America, the ones that appealed to the great masses. One must now add football to the list or else be classed with those persons who are unwilling to admit that the automobile has replaced the horse-drawn carriage.

PEABODY OUT TO WIN OVER LYNN CLASSICAL ELEVEN

By FRED C. LANE.

It might be a trifle early to make predictions concerning prospective championships, yet one cannot stand aside and witness the hectic career of Peabody High without comment. The hand of fate in scholastic football is strange.

What was considered a mediocre team that would have been considered fortunate to win half of its football games has upset all predictions by wading through the rank and file of the best teams in the North Shore League without a mishap.

To date in the four starts the team has beaten Manchester High, Winthrop, Revere and Beverly. There was nothing that resembled a fluke in any one of these four victories. Each game was won because Peabody was supreme.

The big day for the Tanners happens on Saturday when they play Lynn Classical on the latter's grounds. Classical on the latter's gridiron. This will be a battle of wits, as a forward passing team, the same style of game that made his team runner-up to the victorious Peabody club last season.

It was this method of play that caused a Haverhill defeat on the holiday. Coach Brawley built up a defense for the forward passing game of the Lynn school in their play-off last year which brought victory to the Tanners' school. It would seem he had copied a note from out the page of instructions given by Coach Joyce, for this year Peabody is to be feared because of its aerial game.

* * *

If Rindge Technical can recover from the injuries sustained in their Saturday game with Cambridge Latin soon enough they have nothing to fear in the Suburban League. Medford High, last year's winner, showed lack of power in paying Somerville.

* * *

It was the roughest contest played in schoolastic circles for many a year. The so-called experts can call it brutality and all that, but there is a limit to the use of the word.

* * *

Newton High is not to be listed in the under-dog class. Their game with Everett proved the team has plenty of prospective power that Coach Dickerman will bring out before long.

* * *

Salem High will not be hailed upon to exert itself again for two weeks. Amesbury High, though boasting of a strong team, hasn't the power to upset the Witches.

* * *

Revere High may be made up of diminutive players, but what a scrappy lot they are. Beating the heavy Chelsea High team is a task that would be difficult for many of the teams in the State their weight.

* * *

The weekly double-headers get under way again on Wednesday with Braves Field the scene of activities. Brighton plays Charlestown and South Boston plays Trade.

* * *

Coach Joe Green's boy will be given the acid test in their game with Trade. The latter played well in its two starts and should cause the South Boston club to show its hand before the contest comes to a close.

* * *

The holiday games will have no effect on the scholastic contest on the week-end. This week's list is the longest this year and brings into action every eleven Saturday.

SHAKEUP IN YALE LINE COMING

New Haven, Oct. 15.—That the make-up of the Yale varsity team which will meet Dartmouth next Saturday is in no way settled was apparent today when the squad started practice. The doubtful places are the guards and tackles and the candidates for these places were all given individual criticism and individual work.

When the varsity lined up for the dummy scrimmage this afternoon, Wenham played at right guard in place of Eckart. Sturhahn was at left guard; Joss, right tackle; Root, left tackle; Luman, right end; Bingham, left end, and Bench, quarterback, with Allen, Cottle and Pond the other backs.

FIGHT MANAGER TO BE EXTRADITED TO HUB

Special Officer Harold Watkins of the City Hall avenue station is on the way to Chicago with extradition papers for Thomas Walsh, manager of Jock Malone.

Walsh was indicted last week for the larceny of $25,000 worth of paintings from a building on Court street. He was arrested recently in Chicago for the Boston police. It is alleged that several of the paintings in question were found in Chicago office.

MALONEY WINS OVER McCANN BY SCORING SINGLE PUNCH

By JACK CONWAY

If you started to light your cigar after the bell sounded for the first round of the bout between Jim Maloney of South Boston and Joe McCann, Newark heavyweight, you probably missed one of the most sensational one-punch battles ever staged in this city.

After the round had gone one minute and fifteen seconds, Maloney scored the only real punch of the tussle. It was a terrific right-hand wallop, which landed flush on McCann's jaw. The Newark puncher was near his own corner when the tremendous smash went over. The force of the blow drove him through the ropes.

* * *

Ordinarily a fighter under such condition would land on the platform outside of the ropes. There was so much power behind Maloney's mighty smash that McCann passed over the platform with the same startling rapidity that the ZR-3 whirls through space. His 192 pounds of fighting flesh and bone plunged through the outstretched arms of spectators in seats close to the ring and then crashed to the floor of Mechanics Building.

McCann was dazed and groggy as he floundered around the floor much like a fish out of water.

* * *

Billy McCarney, McCann's manager, was quick to realize that his protege never would be able to get back into the ring before the referee could count ten. He took a long chance at bluffing his way out of the situation. With the aid of some of the fans, McCarney lifted McCann back into the ring.

Referee Joe O'Connor of Charlestown once more proved he is competent as well as fearless and disqualified the Newark heavyweight. Even if O'Connor had permitted the bout to go on, Maloney would have knocked McCann over with his next punch.

Maloney was given an ovation as he left the ring in triumph. His improvement with each start leads many experts of the fistic game to believe he will soon be battling on even terms with the leading heavyweight contenders.

The crowd was thrilled with the bout as a result of its sensational ending. It proved that action is what the boxing public wishes. It prefers one minute while the real thrill to thirty minutes of mediocre boxing.

Maloney weighed 196 pounds and was in the best of condition.

* * *

Tom Kirby, former amateur champion, won over Jack McLellan of Somerville in the semi-final of eight rounds. Kirby scored three knockdowns, two in the first round and one in the fourth. McLellan was fortunate to weather the attack of the Roxbury youth in the early rounds. McLellan made a good finish, taking the honors in the last two frames when Kirby displayed marked signs of tiredness.

Kirby scaled 174 pounds, McLellan 169 pounds.

* * *

Arthur Del Monte, Italian heavyweight, weighing 205 pounds, kayoed Henry Van Patten of Roxbury, 228 pounds, in seven rounds. Van Patten went down as much from exhaustion as he did from the effects of Del Monte's punches.

Jack Hankinson of England, 184 pounds, stopped Jack Murphy of Roxbury, 219 pounds, in four rounds.

PRO GOLFERS CLASH IN MIAMI TOURNEY

Miami, Fla., Oct. 15.—The second annual international professional open golf tournament will take place here December 5 and 6, H. B. Martin, sports director of the Miami Chamber of Commerce, announced. Probable players will include Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, England; Mike Brady, the three Brophy brothers, Jock Hutchison, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Johnny Farrell, Bobby Cruikshank, Cyril Walker, Tommy Kerrigan and Jim Barnes.

SHOCKER-HOYT TRADE DENIED BY BARROW

New York, Oct. 15.—Stories out of St. Louis to the effect that Urban Shocker, star spitball pitcher of the Browns, would be traded to the Yankees for Waite Hoyt, were denied by Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the local club.

Shocker has pitched his last game for the Browns, according to reliable advices from the Mound City. Owner Phil Ball and Manager George Sisler, as well as Shocker himself, believe that he has outlived his usefulness in St. Louis.

New Autumn Suits in Imported Tweeds and Worsteds

They are soft and supple, refined in color and weave. The Tweeds are of Scottish origin, of our own importation—same can be said of those West of England worsteds.

Our own distinctive designing, fashioning and tailoring, with the fashion lines simple but strict, as you will observe in the moderately short lounge coat, curving gracefully, yet avoiding the pinched in waist.

New English type lounge suits setting forth several of the notes of smartness that you expect us to have exclusively.

New two and three button models and many modifications in colors. Fresh daily arrivals from our own work rooms.

MEXICAN SEEKING CROWN

By DAMON RUNYON

NEW YORK Oct. 15.—Out on the West Coast Fred "Windy" Winsor, once manager of Jack Dempsey, is greatly excited because he says he has the next heavyweight champion of the world.

Do not laugh at "Windy" Winsor's remarks. Remember that Jack Kearns was laughed at seven years ago when he volubly announced that he had the next champion. Experts looked at Kearns' man, Dempsey, and said he was "a big bum."

Winsor's heavyweight is a Mexican, Tony Fuente by name. Winsor, who has a great imagination and is an indefatigable seeker after publicity for his pugilists, dresses Fuente in a comic opera uniform and serves notice that Fuente was once a general in the Mexican army.

You do not have to believe this. The only question that interests you, [illegible] fighters [illegible] Tuesday is whether Fuente is to be seen.

The boxing writers on the Pacific coast say Fuente seems to be a good prospect. He is twenty-one, weighs 195 pounds and has knocked over a number of second and third raters.

* * *

FLOYD JOHNSON, who seems to be the official trial horse for foreign heavyweights, has gone to Los Angeles to test Tony Fuente.

Johnson bakes Winsor's heavyweight October 21 at Jack Doyle's famous club. It will be a four round affair. If Fuente can beat Johnson he will immediately be brought East.

Johnson has checked these pugilistic "foreign invasions" on two occasions. He stopped Quentin Rolfe, the Englishman, and then he knocked out Andres Hasa, called the best heavyweight in Spain.

If Winsor's man, Fuente, can whip Johnson a big, strong, inordinately slow fellow, he must indeed be a coming champion.

* * *

BOXING WRITERS will tell you that stagnation has overtaken the game, a statement borne out by the attendance at the boxing shows.

The most glorious summer was the most disastrous open air season in years for the promoters, not only around New York but in other States. Nearly all the promoters wound up the season heavily in debt.

The writer thinks the lack of activity in the heavyweight division had as much to do with the present situation as any other one cause. It has been his observation that when the big fellows are busy things are brisk all along the line.

This is especially true when some new championship sensation appears. It takes only one, a Dempsey, a Firpo, in the early stages of their development to excite interest.

CRIMSON SHOT WITH INJURIES TO REGULARS

With the Holy Cross game only three days away, Harvard has a disabled list that begins to look like a roll call of the varsity eleven. Five regulars and as many more first string substitutes were unable to scrimmage yesterday.

Lewis, fullback, was in bed. Joe Richards hopes to twist his limb into shape for Saturday's contest.

Dolph Cheek, quarterback, is nursing a wrenched knee. Phil Spaulding, his substitute, has a stiff knee.

Art Rogers, the dropkicking star, is out with a twisted ankle until the Dartmouth game.

Dolph Samborski, backfield substitute, wrenched his ankle running out to report in the Middlebury game, and will be out for two weeks.

Captain Mal Greenough, left tackle, is being kept out of scrimmage until the coaches fix up a contraption for his left shoulder.

Leo Daley, right guard, has an ailing arm.

The Crimson outlook would indeed look gloomy if Jack Hammond, Nat Howe, Heinie Dunker, Eddie Nash and Clement Coady were not ready to return to the fold. Hammond, Howe and Nash got into the scrimmage yesterday for the first time in several weeks.

Coady, who has been recuperating from appendicitis, will be available for the Dartmouth game. Coady is a 200 pound tackle.

Dunker is due to leave the infirmary today, where he has been confined with a light attack of diphtheria. He believes he will be in shape for the Dartmouth game, but Ivy Richards will be satisfied if he is able to start against Princeton.

Moe was nose-i out of a nice bet yesterday. He had a grand on Master Billy, a 7 to 2 shot, which was beaten in the last step, after leading all the way. However, Moe is shooting at one today that, although he has a trunk full of sash weights up, ought to win with little Buck dangling from his tail. B. R. to date, $28,585.21.

COMMERCIAL RIVALRY TO BE STRONG

Can you read the meaning of the wonders in the skies?

The gentlemen who recently returned from a month's sojourn in Germany declare that the business men of that land will not be able to flood the country with cheap goods as soon as we not sufficiently appreciate German ingenuity and ability.

NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen His dissolute habits soon made her miserable, but she endured him for three years. The night he raised his hand to his two-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. She never saw him again. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Eardale, where she met Andrew and fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Then she took a school in a tiny mountain town, where she fought despair. She nearly died in a storm and Andrew was summoned by Nora Lee.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

It was like white saucers. It was the coldest, loneliest night.

Then she remembered the letters and wanted to run down and put them in Margaret's hand. Perhaps that would make her better. She took them from her pocket, and noticed for the first time that one was addressed to her.

It was short, but just like Andrew. He said

"My dear, dear only Nora Lee:

"Of course old Andrew didn't forget you. When that [illegible] gets you. When that [illegible] trees will sing and birds will [illegible] soon, and everything will be other [illegible] than it. I tried to send a letter once but you see I've been in the hospital. Very sudden, Nora Lee. [illegible] no one right without her [illegible] or anything. I'm in the [illegible] and [illegible] wrong after the operation, so I didn't know whether I was up [illegible] or down for the longest time. Please forgive your funny old friend [illegible] thanks for lugging me up. So [illegible] Nora Lee, will you? I suppose you're quite a big girl by now. I'd like to come and see you. Not soon [illegible] far away. I send you back [illegible] thanks for yours.

"ANDREW."

Valley of the Shadow.

That made her so glad she sobbed and wept for a moment. Margaret was lying so flat against the pillows.

Matty came chugging up the stairs. She said abruptly: "Nora put a log on, Nora Lee, and sit down a few minutes. Your mummie is very, very sick. The doctor says maybe she'll get better and maybe not. It's all as God wills. So I want you to go to bed like a good child and not [illegible] anymore."

Nora Lee shut her eyes tight. "I really can't see her? I can't see my own mother. I know I don't want me. I'm the only thing she has."

But they wouldn't let the child in the room. She lay awake [illegible] Two or three times she got up on [illegible] door. She fell asleep [illegible] a few hours.

[illegible] morning she was [illegible] first one had been awake all night.

Margaret had [illegible] She [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] "You could hear her [illegible] breath even from the [illegible] [illegible] eyes were red and [illegible]

Suddenly Matty [illegible] Margaret [illegible] When Nora Lee [illegible] she [illegible] a brave child.

She went about in a still, [illegible] manner. She crept into the [illegible] room and prayed. Then for quite a while she sat and held Margaret's narrow hand. If only her mother wouldn't make her [illegible] if only she didn't breathe like that [illegible]

Once she lay quiet a long time. Then Nora Lee leaned down and whispered: "Mummee, do you know I'm here?"

Margaret said faintly: "Nora Lee [illegible]

'Andrew Wrote'

Her heart jumped to [illegible] She sagged softly: "Oh, mummee, did [illegible] know that letters come? I thought you might want to know that Andrew wrote the day you fell in the snow—"

A smile touched up those suffering lips. She was sure of it, and added: "Did you hear what I said?"

Margaret did smile. "Andrew wrote?"

Nora Lee began to cry. This was the first real word her mother was to [illegible] years, he did. He was sick, [illegible] He didn't forget. He told me so."

The smile deepened. Margaret's eyes opened. They were soft and gentle—all filled with wondrous joy. For a moment the long, slender hands were quiet. She said again, and it was like a faint tinkle of her happy, happy laugh, "Andrew wrote."

Oh, it was just as though she were [illegible] better again. Nora Lee was sure of it.

Matty called her to the kitchen. "Eat your dinner — the doctor is [illegible]"

She said gravely, "My mother [illegible]"

But an hour later Matty and the [illegible] were whispering in the hall. Matty said, "Dying, doctor?"

"I'm afraid [illegible]

The next moment the doctor came into the kitchen and put his arm on Nora Lee's shoulder. He said kindly: "Has your mother any relatives, Nora Lee, or any very good friends? I think we ought to send for them."

"Mr. Andrew—he's the only."

"Look out for prescription pads!

"Did she call for me?" asked Andrew

"You're a smart little girl. Now put Andrew's address here. I'll send him a wire."

She wrote "Dear Andrew—Mummie is very sick. The doctor says I ought to tell you. You'd better come right away. Nora Lee."

That was the way the fateful and tragic thing happened.

The New Home.

Andrew was coming.

Nora Lee dashed the flurry of tears from her eyes and read the mighty words. "[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [

THE HELPING HAND

Pleads for Son

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a poor widow with one son, a war veteran, who has been very sick since he came home from war and can't work hard or steady. Could some kind reader send me shoes, 4½, housedress and coat, size 42 or 44, and a suit, size 36 or 38, and shoes, size 6, for my son. I would be so happy.

MRS. B. I.

For Little Girl

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a few things for a little girl about four years; if anyone could care to call for them they will have same.

MRS. J. C. R.

Thank you, Mrs. J. K. of your city has a little girl just the age you mention and we have asked her to call for the things you so kindly offer.

All Need Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a little girl nine years old and I wish some kind reader would give me a Winter coat and some school dresses. I have a sister three years and a brother two years and one ten weeks old. They all need clothes, as does my mother, who takes size 42.

LILLIAN H.

Offers Winter Coat

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a good Winter coat which I would be glad to pass on to some poor woman. It will fit a woman wearing size 38 or 40. This is such a nice way of reaching people who need help.

MRS. J. B. M.

Many thanks, Mrs. M. If P. is very much in need of this particular article and we are sending you her address.

Needs Kitchen Stove

Helping Hand Editor:

I am in great need of a kitchen stove; mine is broken and I cannot afford to buy another for this Winter. I have a family of six and my husband gets small pay and I am not strong enough to go out to work and help. I shall be very grateful to anyone who could help me out.

S. C.

Seeks Winter Coat

Helping Hand Editor:

My girl is in need of a Winter coat, and my little boys, 2 and 4, need overalls. I would be so grateful to anyone who would send me these things.

MRS. C.

Pitiful Case

Helping Hand Editor:

I would like to tell you about a very pitiful case I saw recently. There is a mother and a little girl, age five, greatly in need. I found the little one sick in bed with hardly enough to eat. The mother needs an operation. The mother tried to get in a lodging house and bought the furniture with her husband's insurance, but did not make a "go" of it, has fallen behind in her rent and in her payment upon the mortgage and will soon be put on the street. They both need underclothing, stockings, etc. The woman takes size 38. Please look after this case and see if some of your kind readers won't help. It is worthy.

MRS. M. M.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Dr. F. X. Mahoney

Boston Health Commissioner

MUCH is now being done for cancer that was not being done before. Many cures of cancer are now recorded to the credit of medical science. The disease in many cases is not, therefore, the hopeless thing it once was. But it is still an object of such deep dread that you and every reader must be interested in all new knowledge tending to the solution of the yet unsolved cancer problem.

Dr. Mahoney.

The latest investigations have come from Dr. Montrose T. Burrows, of Washington University Medical School. He has been conducting a number of experiments to keep alive and active certain cells after they have been removed from the human body. He has succeeded in thus keeping some of them alive for several years.

In the course of his investigations Dr. Burrows found that coal tar as used in his experiments has the power to contract cells away from their normal blood supply and that the cells thus attracted tend to grow and multiply with unusual rapidity.

This new quality of growth seems to depend upon some change not as yet understood within the cells themselves, but a change that is evidently induced in them by a reduction of their blood supply to below normal.

Dr. Burrows points with great suggestiveness to the fact that cancers occur chiefly in elderly people and in localities in their bodies from which, as a result of advancing years, there has been a marked reduction in the blood supply to the cells.

They would seem to suggest the importance of maintaining a normal standard of circulation in all parts and organs of the body as the one rational and effective method best calculated to prevent the occurrence of cancer.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

My daughter has had St. Vitus dance for two weeks. Can you suggest anything that will cure her?

Mrs. H. J., Danvers.

I am sorry that I cannot suggest any cure for St. Vitus dance. The best that I can do is to advise you to direct your attention to the child's general health. Try to have her avoid excitement as much as possible. The condition may disappear as quickly as it came.

Have been using ..... My hair is beginning to turn gray. Could this be the cause of it? My maid's feet crack and bleed between and under the toes.

Mrs. J. D. T., Brighton.

I do not think that the soap which you mention would have any effect on the hair. As to the cracking of your maid's feet, I would suggest that she have her soak them in a solution of sea salt and water every night. Think it will take care of the condition of which you speak.

MOTOR NEWS

HELEN WILLS GIVEN AUTO

At the Berkeley Tennis Club in California, Miss Helen Wills, world champion tennis player, was presented with one of the new Buick Country Club Specials.

The car was the gift of civic and tennis organizations in California. Presentation was made by "Pop" Fuller, veteran tennis instructor who coached Miss Wills into her present championship caliber.

Carbon Causes Millions Loss to Auto Owners Yearly, Says Expert

American automobile owners are wasting millions of dollars annually, according to Harrison Boyce, nationally known automotive engineer, who is now making a special study of motor maintenance in his Long Island laboratory.

"From figures which I have compiled in cooperation with the Automobile Chamber of Commerce," Mr. Boyce states, "I am convinced that through one item alone in automobile maintenance, motor owners throughout the United States are literally throwing away millions of dollars each year. That one item has to do with the common enemy of all motors, whether they operate on land, in the air or on the water. It is carbon."

Mr. Boyce points out that official figures show that the average cost per year of cleaning out carbon-clogged valves is $6 per car. According to statistics of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce, there were in the United States last year approximately 15,500,000 cars. This means that the total valve grinding bill of the whole country was a bit more than $93,000,000.

The sum total of wastage is further augmented, according to Mr. Boyce, by the fact that carbon clogged cars require at least twenty per cent. more gasoline than cars with clean valves. If you keep your motor clear of carbon you will save twenty cents on every dollar you spend for gasoline.

The waste is all the more appalling because it is totally unnecessary. Carbon as a motor menace has been eliminated, thanks to some of our leading chemists. Gasoline treated with a chemical carbon remover, Boyce-ite is a good one, keeps motors free from carbon.

during damp nights, cause untold inconvenience and expense to motorists who leave their cars out all night.

It is so easy, and in the long run such a big saving to have a garage, that everybody who has the money to purchase a car should take immediate steps to erect a garage, either portable or permanent.

Automobile owners who have been leaving their cars in the streets all night had better look out for those cars as the police have started a crusade against these offenders. Payments can be made so conveniently that there is no excuse for not protecting the car and abiding by the law this Winter.

Nash Smashes All Records

According to C. P. Bockwell, Nash distributor for New England, September, 1924, was the biggest September in the history of The Nash Motors Company.

The cream of given the new Nash models on their introduction, July 31, so spontaneous and wide-spread that by October 1 the factory was swamped by approximately 7,800 cars.

While production in the Nash plants has been increased there has been no appreciable let-up in the demand which, unlike any previous over-sold condition, covers every section of the country.

Must Acquire Auto Garages

It has really taken the police of Boston to impress on some people the wisdom of putting their cars in garages at night.

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1924

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

A battle of more than a century has converted Cape Cod's marshlands and her vast waste territories into fertile fields whose product finds a ready sale at home and in foreign lands.

400,000 barrels of cranberries were picked last year, 110 per cent more than by Cape Cod's two nearest competitors, New Jersey and Long Island, as a result of the activities of the Minute Men.

Poisonous Waste Lands Redeemed in Rich Cranberry Crops by Minute Men of Cape Cod

THE Minute Men of Cape Cod are helping to make Germany safe for democracy.

Having observed faithfully the tenet of patriotism that calls for seeing America first, the Cape Cod cranberry has gone overseas to tickle the palates of the Vaterland with its tart succulence.

A fair swap for the giant Zeppelin ZR-3, with possible odds on the side of the little Cape Cod cranberry!

But the invasion of European markets by the little red, round berries from the sandy Cape—England is smacking her lips over them also—has a greater significance than the mere setting up of a new mart or two.

It means that a battle of more than a century to convert Cape Cod's marshlands and her vast tracts of waste territory into fertile fields, whose products might find ready sale in foreign lands, has been won by indomitable Yankee courage.

It means that overseas Cape Cod will now be known other than as the landing place of the Pilgrims and a setting for Joe Lincoln stories.

As you read this the cranberry harvest on Cape Cod is entering its final stage on bogs, many of which were once vast marshes, dank and fetid, in which mosquitoes and other pests bred prolifically.

From these former marshlands last year 400,000 barrels of cranberries were picked, exactly 210,000 barrels, or 110 per cent. more than the nearest competing district, the bogs of New Jersey and Long Island, N. Y., combined.

This year a similar crop is anticipated, although the berries, in common with other products, have been late in maturing.

A few years ago the sale and distribution of these enormous crops was a hazardous undertaking. In 1914, for instance, the crop was slightly larger. Cranberries then were not known universally as a delicacy.

As a result, a considerable portion of the crop was wasted and the growers, who received less than four dollars a barrel in comparison with today's—and the average—price of eight dollars per barrel, staggered on the verge of ruin.

Yankee ingenuity and the spirit of the Minute Man blocked any possible repetition of the disaster.

Several years before the cranberry growers had found themselves at the mercy of the buyers, the old method of marketing cranberries was that practiced in tobacco marketing and other similar specialty agricultural lines.

The buyers went to the warehouses and bid on the quantity they desired. Some years the growers would get fair prices; other years they were good. But invariably the raisers received a fair return.

Then the buyers, in an inspirational year, combined and fixed a price they would pay for the berries. Competition was killed! The Cape Cod cranberry men were told they could take the set price or keep their berries.

There was but one thing to do—let the product go at the price.

But a Minute Man, once bitten, heals the bite and takes precautions. The American Cranberry Exchange was formed and offices established in New York and Chicago.

In the formation of the exchange, created for the purpose of distributing the berries wherever there was a market, the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association was a moving spirit, as it has been through the long years while the swamplands were being conquered.

When the 1914 catastrophe of overproduction occurred, the cranberry men saw the need of promotion in sections where, until then, the tart cranberry was a stranger on the table.

A campaign of publicity was begun, and a marked increase in the demand for cranberries resulted immediately.

In the established markets the sales equalled those of the previous year, the gain for the year being new users.

If you would sell something, first tell the world you have it to sell!

Down on Cape Cod, while you are driving your motor and enjoying the bracing air, automobiles and trucks will pass you bearing the legend: "Eatmore Cranberries."

On the Pacific coast, if you are lucky enough to be a distant traveler, you will see the same legend displayed.

If you care to sample, you may pick a specimen from a box on display and crush a crisp red Cape Cod cranberry in your teeth while looking out through the Golden Gate at 'Frisco.

To the Cranberry Growers' Association—a membership of five Minute Men—Cape Cod owes an overwhelming debt of gratitude.

Through this body thousands of Cape dwellers have been furnished with lucrative employment.

Ready cash has rolled into the Cape, to be distributed by the possessors to other enterprises for goods.

The mosquito-ridden marshes have been practically done away with, their sites now being utilized for a thriving industry.

Heading the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association is a young man of unlimited energy. He is Ruel S. Gibbs, a large grower, a large employer and a man who is broad enough to enjoy a good football game even in the midst of the cranberry season.

L. C. Hall of Wareham, editor of the Wareham Courier, is secretary. The treasurer is Z. H. Jenkins of West Barnstable.

Not so long ago the members of this live organization came to realize that there were a lot of things about cranberries that they did not know and had no time to learn through lengthy experiment.

Therefore they busied themselves to one purpose and brought about the establishment of the Cranberry Sub-Station, Massachusetts Agricultural Experimental Station.

Through this sub-station the growers are enabled to learn the conditions best suited to growing and the best times and methods to pick and store the fruit—things which would be found out otherwise only through bitter and costly experience.

For instance, the Cape Cod grower knows now that the cranberry is still a living organism after it is picked, and that respiration continues, oxygen being taken in and carbon dioxide given off.

He knows that the higher the temperature, the faster this process goes on and the shorter the life of the berry.

Also he knows that on this account every rise in temperature of eighteen degrees cuts the life of the cranberry in half; that is, if a bushel of cranberries is picked in the middle of a warm day when the berries have a temperature of 82 and are stored in a building at this temperature, they will keep only half as long as a bushel of berries picked earlier at a temperature of 64 and stored in a building at the 64 degree temperature.

The Minute Men of Cape Cod have saved many minutes—and many berries—through their foresight in having the experimental station established.

Cranberries are as difficult to raise successfully, perhaps, as almost any other commodity a person is able to name offhand.

The Cape Cod Minute Men must be on the job the entire year round. Their work is not ended when the crop is harvested.

Although the cranberry is a perennial, its life is subject to sudden end unless constant care is taken to protect it from one thousand and one ravages.

More than 100 species of weeds infest cranberry fields or bogs, most of them being serious pests. The annual cost of weeding some fields reaches $100 an acre. Then there are the insect pests.

Cranberry raising is no sinecure!

Only men with the dogged persistency that has urged them on to success through a century of fighting could accomplish for their community what the cranberry growers of Cape Cod have accomplished.

They inherit their spirit from their ancestors, who weathered disappointment before them, yet continued with the struggle until they had attained the degree of success for which they strove.

The forerunners of the present Cape Cod Minute Men first began the attempt at cultivating cranberries between 1810 and 1820.

From then until 1850 they struggled in the face of almost unbearable disappointment.

After thirty years they had accumulated sufficient experience to produce a crop successfully. Thirty years to learn a trade!

In the seventy-four years that have been torn from the calendar since those struggling days, practically every swamp in the long arm of land that reaches out into the Atlantic has been converted into a producing cranberry bog.

The once flat, marshy and rank tracts, now, in the Fall of the year when the berries and the leaves of the vines are red, are an asset to the colorful Autumn landscape of the Cape, rather than a liability.

Cape Cod cranberries, through the indefatigable efforts of men who heed not the word "fail," are known at last throughout the land.

They grace tables in Germany and England, from which countries orders of several thousand barrels are expected this year.

The beauty of it is, that even in Germany, Cape Cod cranberries will always be called Cape Cod cranberries, preserving the source of the delectable fruit in any language. Not even a German can transpose the words "Cape Cod cranberries" into gutterals.

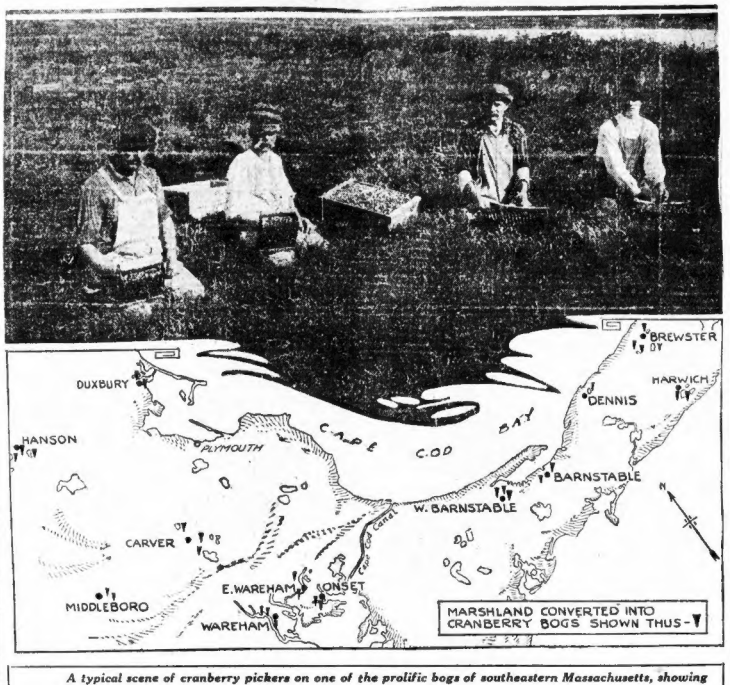
Future Minute Men are growing up in the sturdy, self-reliant atmosphere of the Cape. At the age of ten years, the ordinary Cape Cod boy can spot out an "Early Black" or a "Howes" or a "McFarlin," just as a city boy can differentiate between makes of automobiles rolling through the streets.

The future of Cape Cod is assured. It took the Minute Men more than a century to market their berries abroad, but they stuck to it, and opened up new fields for their products.

A Cape Cod Minute Man is on the job every minute.

Dr. Crane's Article on Page 9. Helping Hand on Page 15.

PICKING FRUIT FOR WORLD'S MARKETS



A typical scene of cranberry pickers on one of the prolific bogs of southeastern Massachusetts, showing scoops which have superseded the old method of hand picking. On the map are indicated the localities, many of them formerly mosquito-infested marshes, which have been converted into acres of berry-bearing land from which the little red fruit finds its way into foreign as well as home markets, especially those of Germany and England, and carries with it the name and fame of Cape Cod and her dauntless Minute Men.
